

CALL for PAPERS

2022 APEMC-TOPICAL Meeting

Electrostatic Protection and Standardization Session

The 2022 China Electromagnetic Compatibility Week will be held in Beijing from May 8th to 11th, 2022, consisting of four major conferences for the first time, namely, The 13th Asia-Pacific International Symposium on Electromagnetic Compatibility (APEMC), The 2022 China Electromagnetic Compatibility and Electromagnetic Environment Effect Technology and Industry Innovation Conference, China Electromagnetic Compatibility Annual Meeting, and The 9th Electrostatic Protection and Standardization International Conference. Speeches and reports of China Electromagnetic Compatibility Week will be conducted in Mandarin and English.

The APEMC-topical meeting on Electrostatic Protection and Standardization Session will focus on the subject of "Digital enabling industry transformation, Integration drives the transformation of industrial ecology", and deeply discuss the technology, products, equipment, services and industrial development of electrostatic protection and standardization for the key and urgent needs of various related fields.

A 3-page paper shall be submitted in-line with APEMC (www.apemc.org) and registered in APEMC. The presented papers will be included in the IEEEExplore® with EI indexing.

The 2022 China Electromagnetic Compatibility Week sincerely welcomes paper contributions from all experts and colleagues in related fields!

Focused Themes

- Frontier ESD theory and standard;
- ESD, EMC and Electromagnetic safety;
- Hazard diagnosis and prevention of electrostatic discharge;
- Advanced ESD management methods and concepts;
- ESD measurement and testing;
- Antistatic design and test of electronic products;
- Electrostatic safety protection of flammable and explosive products;
- ESD system and application, etc.
